WHEN LIGHT BREAKS

NEW YORK BASED ALTERNATIVE METAL

OFFICIAL BIOGRAPHY

Formed in New York in 2026, When Light Breaks is an independent four-piece alternative metal band founded by vocalist Blegh Lady and guitarist DVRK PRISM. Having spent years creating music together, the two relocated from Spain to the United States, where they began developing a new musical vision. In New York, they joined forces with bassist Dreadful Gooz and drummer Morgan Simons, completing the band's lineup.

Drawing from metalcore, djent, and deathcore while incorporating cinematic atmospheres, electronic elements, and contrasting sonic textures, When Light Breaks embraces a sound built around intensity and unpredictability. Aggression and vulnerability coexist, allowing their music to move between overwhelming heaviness, haunting atmospheres, and deeply emotional moments.

> The band's identity revolves around a fundamental question: what happens when everything we believe to be true turns out to be an illusion?

The name When Light Breaks reflects the moment when an idealized perception of reality fractures, exposing something previously hidden beneath the surface. Rather than offering simple answers, the band explores the uncertainty, contradictions, and emotional impact of confronting a different truth.

Their music draws on deeply personal experiences alongside broader reflections on humanity, identity, trauma, relationships, and society. Through these themes, When Light Breaks examines the complexities of human nature, questioning established perceptions and exploring the tension between what we feel, what we believe, and what actually exists.

THE MUSIC

Musically and visually, the band embraces contrast as an essential part of its identity. Dark, aggressive, melancholic, and atmospheric elements collide with unexpected shifts in intensity, creating an experience designed to provoke strong reactions. Rather than following a predictable formula, When Light Breaks approaches its music with a desire to challenge expectations and leave a lasting impression.

This vision introduces the band's debut single, “Pre-Human State,” scheduled for release on November 6, 2026.

Written and composed by Blegh Lady and DVRK PRISM, the track introduces listeners to the band's distinctive creative world, exploring unfamiliar sensations, questions of identity, and the search for something beyond our immediate understanding.

The single is accompanied by an official music video directed by Tom Flynn, filmed in Brooklyn, New York. Combining an intense performance by the band with a conceptual narrative centered on Blegh Lady, the video explores a physical and psychological transformation, moving from complete disorientation toward self-recognition.

Working independently, When Light Breaks maintains creative control over its music, production, and artistic direction. “Pre-Human State” marks the beginning of a broader musical journey, with additional singles leading toward an eight-track debut album scheduled for March 2027.

With plans to bring their music to the stage in 2027, When Light Breaks is preparing to take its sound beyond the studio, translating its distinctive combination of intensity, atmosphere, and emotion into a live experience.
